

When the Leaves Begin to Fall

We begin to think about what we are going to wear the coming winter.

All Childrens Cloaks are in and Ladies' Cloaks are Coming in.

Last year we cleaned up nearly everything in Cloaks that we had. So we start off this year with a full and complete line of new goods. There is no doubt but what you will like them as they are very nice and not too expensive. Fur lined garments are to be very popular the coming winter. We have a good assortment of them coming in now. When you think of Cloaks, think of

WILTSEE TO FOND DU LAC.

At the Milwaukee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which was conducted this week at Wausau, Rev. H. T. Wiltsee, pastor for four years of the M. E. Church in this city, was transferred to Fond du Lac in the Fond du Lac district. He will have charge of the Division street church in that city.

Rev. Wiltsee will be succeeded here by Rev. Richard Evans, who for the past year has been located at Clintonville. Rev. Evans is a young man highly spoken of by his present congregation and popular among his fellow clergy. Owing to the improvements now being made at the church here, Rev. Evans will not deliver his initial sermon until Sunday Oct. 7th. He will move his family here from Clintonville next week.

SUSPENSE PUBLICATION.

The Minneapolis Times suspended publication on Sunday, Sept. 21, after an existence of nearly 16 years. The Minneapolis Tribune has contracted to fill its unexpired subscription list.

The discontinuance of the Times was announced on the last day of publication. Ever since last January frequent rumors were in circulation of a suspension of the paper, which failed to take place. Finally, when the Times failed to appear, the rumor was confirmed. The fact that he was chosen for the place speaks well for his ability as a clergyman.

From the standpoint of the readers it is probably a decided advantage to have one great strong paper than to have part of the reading public patronize another paper. The Tribune now has over 100,000 paid circulation, making it nearly twice as great as any other paper. No paper has 200,000 readers, which is about the number that read The Minneapolis Tribune every day, without hitting the bull's eye of popularity in the Northwest. Some people will be sorry to miss The Times, but there is some consolation in the knowledge that by this very fact its contemporary, The Minneapolis Tribune, will be benefited and materially improved. The Minneapolis Tribune is one of the dozen great dailies of America that have over 100,000 subscribers and purchasers. We are glad of its success and certainly Minneapolis and the Northwest are proud of the greatest daily, The Minneapolis Tribune.

"THE IRISH PAWN BROKERS."

The big fun show "The Irish Pawn Brokers" which has been one of the biggest successes ever known in farce comedy will be the attraction at The Grand Opera House next Monday evening Oct. 2nd. This is the fourth successful season of the popular skit and each season has been improved and re-written. This is the fourth edition and is the work of Edgar Selden. He has so re-written the comedy that not a line of the former editions is retained, at the same time he has woven a consistent story of intrigue depending on the situations and complications together with funny lines and business to furnish the fun, which is all the more enjoyable from the fact that laughs are furnished naturally and with reason, and not from the efforts of performers who as in some farce comedies stop at nothing to produce a laugh whether relevant to the action of the farce or not. The same popular favorites who have been largely responsible for the success of the comedy, have been retained, namely Davis and Mack. They are ably assisted. Some of the richest costumes ever seen in farce comedy are promised together with a musical programme of all the recent successes and many entirely new numbers written for and produced solely by this organization.

RE-BUILDS SAW-MILL.

J. W. Emerson came home from his camp at Swallow Monday night. Mr. Emerson states that the J. E. Marra sawmill at Swallow, recently destroyed by fire, has been rebuilt and is about ready to resume its cut, which will last for at least three or four years, winter and summer. A school district has been organized at Swallow and the first school meeting will be held tomorrow.—Prenzel Calomet.

POULTRY AND TRUCK FARM.

James J. Egan of Glenville, Minn., arrived in the city Tuesday morning with the intention of locating here permanently. Mr. Egan is in business at Glenville, and some months ago purchased a tract of land near Roosevelt of 250 acres. He now desires to obtain about forty acres nearer this city and start a poultry and truck farm.

AN OLD SETTLER GONE.

After months of suffering death came to Thos. F. McDermott Sr., at his home on Mercer street Thursday afternoon. For the past year the old gentleman had been afflicted with stomach trouble, which combined with his advanced age, caused him to fall rapidly.

Mr. McDermott was at the time of his death in his seventy-fourth year. He was a native of Ireland and came to the United States in 1848, locating in Pennsylvania. In 1859 he was married to Miss Margaret Morgan. Eight children blessed their union, five of whom are living, namely: T. F. Jr., P. J. and Michael McDermott and Mrs. Wm. White of this city, and Mrs. Thos. Cassin of Manitowish. Shortly after his marriage Mr. McDermott moved to Wisconsin, settling in Waupaca county. From there he came to this city in 1882. At that time Rhinelander was nothing more than a clearing in the wilderness, with only a few log buildings. Mr. McDermott engaged in the hotel business and commenced the construction of the Arlington Hotel. The lumber used in the building of this hotel was hauled from Wausau. He continued in the hotel business for many years and only a few years ago turned the property over to his son, T. F. McDermott Jr., who has since conducted it. Mr. McDermott was well known in this vicinity and likewise throughout Northern Wisconsin. He had charge of crews who constructed the Wisconsin Central railroad through this state and also superintended the laying of tracks for the Green Bay, Winona & Western railway. Aside from his wife and children, he is survived by fifteen grand children. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held Monday from St. Mary's church.

GOING UP.

A visit to the Wisconsin Veneer Company's plant is all that is needed to convince a person of what can be accomplished in the erection of buildings in a few weeks. The large frame building is getting along nicely, work of graveling the roof commencing Tuesday. The brick warehouse has been commenced and the mason work will undoubtedly be completed in about thirty days. Part of the new machinery we understand, has been ordered shipped and will be installed before the buildings are completed. As the engine house was only slightly damaged by the fire it is probable the plant will commence running about Jan. 1st.

LOSES HIS FOOT.

In an attempt to board an east bound Soo freight train which was pulling out of the yards here Saturday morning, Frank Rutledge, aged sixteen, injured his right foot so badly that it was necessary to amputate the member below the ankle. The boy was returning from a foot ball game and as his home is a considerable distance on the north side, decided to save time by catching a ride. In climbing up the side ladder of a box-car, his foot caught in the brake-beam and he fell beneath the wheels. He was immediately removed to St. Mary's hospital where he is now confined. Rutledge has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Evers since coming to Rhinelander some years ago, and has many friends who sympathize with him in his misfortune.

LECTURE FRIDAY EVENING.

Rev. John Daly will give a lecture at the Catholic church in this city Friday evening Sept. 29, on "The Catholic Church and American Liberty." Rev. Daly comes here under the auspices of the C. K. of W. A collection for the benefit of the church will be taken up during the lecture.

For the Land Sake

Buy a home while you can get land cheap. No better or safer investment than land. Northern Wisconsin is rapidly settling up and you will soon be too late to get good land cheap. Don't buy high priced lands and be in debt all your life, buy and let it pay on the rise.

My lands are situated in a good farming community, near good markets, railroads and towns.

I also have a large list of city property for sale, among it the B. L. Horr Addition which are the very choicest resident lots in the city.

GUARD CEMETERY.

As a preventive against a possible raid on St. Mary's cemetery near this city, a guard has been on duty there for several nights of this week. A gang of fellows have been at work in cities of Northern Wisconsin and Michigan demolishing crosses in cemeteries. Thousands of dollars worth of monuments and tombstones have been destroyed or disfigured. The latest attacks were made on cemeteries in Escanaba and Gladstone, Mich., and it has been feared that the gang is moving this way. It is impossible to gain any clue which might lead to the arrest of the marauders.

FIRE IN BARN.

The roof of Brown Bros.' barn near their mill on the north side, caught fire Thursday forenoon, probably from a flying spark. The barn sheltered several horses at the time. Both horse companies responded to the alarm. Fire lines of hose were laid and the paper mill pumps called upon for pressure. It was found unnecessary to remove the horses as the blaze was soon under control. It did not spread to the interior of the building. Only slight damage is reported.

AMERICAN LAUNDRY SOLD.

Mrs. L. Day, who has conducted the American Steam Laundry at 211 North Brown street, has sold her interest to H. W. Nason, formerly of the Day View Laundry at Milwaukee. Mr. Nason came to Northern Wisconsin some months ago on account of his health, which has improved to such an extent that he has decided to locate here permanently. He is an experienced laundryman and will no doubt receive the liberal patronage heretofore accorded the American Laundry.

NEW MANAGEMENT AT ONEIDA HOUSE.

Hennings & McLaughlin, proprietors of the Oneida Hotel, have dissolved partnership and hereafter the hotel will be under the management of Mr. Hennings. His sister, Miss Meta Hennings, who is at present living in Norwood, Ohio, will be associated with him. Mr. McLaughlin has laid no plans for the future but will doubtless continue to make Rhinelander his home.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Botany class have studied nature twice in the last two weeks, leaving the school house at about three o'clock and reaching home in time for supper.

Thursday the pupils received their numbers and roll call was called for the first time.

Mr. Salisbury of Madison, an agent for Glen & Company, visited the High school last Friday.

The new seats have not arrived yet for the pupils who occupy chairs at one side of the room.

"EASY MONEY" IN SPECTACLES.

A Yale Graduate's Grafting Scheme—Made $200 Weekly Duping Women of Middle and Lower Classes—Six Days a Week, One a Society Man—Feasting Worthless Classes on Business Men—Finished in Penitentiary.

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph R. Bowles.) Some years ago, while chasing out a bankrupt stock of jewelry, I opened up a store on Sixty-third street, in Englewood, Chicago.

One day a very tall man, dressed in overalls, blouse, stogie boots and Scotch cap, came into the store. He carried in one hand two or three large potatoes. Stepping up to me, he extended his right hand and said: "How are you, J. P.?" "I'm glad to see you, don't you know me, do you?" At first I didn't recognize him, but when he introduced himself as Mr. — I instantly remembered him. He was a former Chicago acquaintance, who for several years had held a responsible position with one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in the city. He was a Yale college graduate, of an excellent family. Of course I was astounded to see him in such a garb.

"What in the world are you doing?" I asked.

"Making $25 per day," he replied.

"How, selling potatoes?" I inquired.

"Grafting," he went on; "just grafting."

RAISED UP WITH A PAIR OF NOSE GLASSES IN HIS HAND.

a played-out harness. There was a colored boy on the front seat. "That's my lay-out; what do you think of it?" he said. "But," I asked, "how can you do any grafting in the potato business?" Reaching in his pockets, he produced several pairs of spectacles, and proceeded to explain his system of graft.

The colored boy drove the old horse, while he made house to house calls; always among the middle and lower classes of people.

trouble in persuading them to make purchases. This much accomplished, he had gained at least one point, and often two. In the first place he had broken the ice, and in many instances he had an opportunity to size up the woman's financial standing. Should he have occasion to charge a five or even a two-dollar bill, the prospects were good.

The potato deal closed, he would bring forth a pair of glittering riding low spectacles from his pocket and say:

"See what I found over on the boulevard a few minutes ago. Aren't they beautiful?"

"My! My!" the woman would exclaim, and would immediately try them on. As they were but ordinary window glass, she would look around a moment and declare that she could see "just fine."

"Are they gold?" she would invariably ask.

"Can't you see what they are? I'll bet they never cost less than $12 or $15," he would answer.

Then, as if about to take his departure, he would casually remark that he had no earthly use for them and would sell them cheap.

"How cheap?" would usually come the query.

In setting a price, of course the grafter would be governed by the general appearance of the woman and often by his knowledge of how much cash she had on hand.

"This price was all the way from two to five dollars, though he would accept one dollar, but nothing less. Occasionally he made a sale at five dollars, but two dollars was the popular price.

Life further explained that he carried in his right hand, upper vest pocket a pair of lenses of the right refractive power for a person of about 40 years of age, in his left hand upper vest pocket a pair for a person of about 50 years of age, and in one coat pocket a pair for a person of 60, and so on.

Should his spectacle transaction take place in the house where the woman would be likely to pick up a newspaper, he would thus be able to give her a magnifying glass. Should she remark that they were not just right, he would say that he was sorry and would place them back in his pocket. Then suddenly reaching to another pocket, he would bring forth another pair, either weaker or stronger, and say:

alloy," which will tarnish and get black within three days after coming in contact with the face.

The man declared that he had for years been working on what he considered a pious salary. His father, who had been well to do, had recently died leaving his estate so entangled that it would cost more to unravel it than it was worth.

The following Saturday evening, while at the theater, I saw this "grafter" enter one of the boxes with a party of society people. He wore a full-dress evening suit, an elegant silk-lined overcoat and diamonds.

Happening to spy me in the parquette, he placed the thumb and forefinger of each hand together, and laughingly held them up to his eyes, in a manner to suggest spectacles.

Two weeks later I opened a store under the Great Northern hotel.

One Saturday afternoon this "grafter" called on me. He told me that for the past three or four weeks his profits had averaged $200 a week. On this occasion he was dressed in an up-to-date business suit, fine derby hat and low-cut shoes, and had the appearance of a well-to-do professional or business man.

"J. P.," he said, "although I always take a vacation on Saturday, I nevertheless clear ten dollars or more. Not that I particularly need it. He went on, 'but just to keep my hand in.'"

So saying, he took from his pocket a half dozen pair of nose glasses, of the same quality as his spectacle stock.

As we stood looking from my store window, he said: "I'll just watch for my man and show you how easy it is to make a dollar." Then he gathered some mud from his shoes and rubbed it over a pair of his eye-glasses.

"There comes my man," he cried, an instant later. "Now watch me."

Darting from the store, he quickly stepped into the gutter, in front of "his man," and, reaching down, took particular pains to attract the man's attention. He rose with the pair of nose glasses in his hand.

Of course the mud and clay clinging to the glasses gave them the appearance of having lain for some time in the dirt.

The man was at once interested and, putting them on his nose, he took some printed matter from his pocket and began reading, saying: "They just fit me."

"Well," said the "grafter," "give me five dollars and you may have them, and I'll bet they never cost less than ten dollars."

"No," said the man, "I wouldn't do that, but I'll give you two dollars for them."

"Make it three dollars and take them along," urged the grafter.

"No," hesitated the victim, "but I'll split the difference and give you two dollars and a half for them."

"All right," laughed the grafter, "take them along; they are no good to me."

The man paid the money and passed on with a satisfied smile.

The grafter laughed immoderately at his success and declared that there was always something ridiculously funny in every deal of this kind.

In selecting his dupe, he kept his eyes open for a well-dressed man, of business-like appearance, and of about 40 years of age. The glasses were of the proper refractive power to magnify the letters for such a person. They cost him less than 20 cents per pair.

Twenty minutes later the "grafter" had me good-bye. Meeting another man not three rods away, he played the same trick on him, and "landed" him for two dollars inside of five minutes.

Looking toward the store, where myself and clerks were interested spectators, he held up two fingers, indicating the amount of cash received.

I last heard of our college graduate grafter two years later. I read a full account of his implication with a gang of "get-rich-quick" sharpers, all of whom had been sentenced to from one to five years each in the penitentiary.

"See here, I believe these glasses are

Life further explained that he carried in his right hand, upper vest pocket a pair of lenses of the right refractive power for a person of about 40 years of age, in his left hand upper vest pocket a pair for a person of about 50 years of age, and in one coat pocket a pair for a person of 60, and so on.

PECKS BAD BOY ABROAD

After Driving a Milk Cart in Holland, the Bad Boy and His Dad Go to Cuba—The Bad Boy Finds Havana Something Like Heaven—In the Harbor They See the Backbone of the Maine.

BY HON. GEORGE W. PECK, (Ex-Governor of Wisconsin, Former Editor of Peck's Sun, Author of "Peck's Bad Boy," Etc.)

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph R. Bowles.) Havana, Cuba—My Dear Old Greaser: We stopped in Holland for a couple of days after we left Belgium, and it was the most disappointing country we visited on our whole trip.

We expected to be walked on with wooden shoes, and from what we had heard of that duke that married Queen Wilhelmina we thought we were going to a country where men were cruel to their wives, and awaited them over the head when things didn't go right, but when we saw the queen riding with her husband, as free from ostentation as a department store clerk would ride out with his rash-girl wife, and saw happiness beaming on the face of the queen and her husband, and saw them squeeze hands and look lovingly into each other's eyes, we made up our minds that you couldn't believe these newspaper scandals.

And when we saw the broad-shouldered, broad-chested and broad-everywhere women of Holland, who concluded that it would be a brave or reckless husband who would be unkind to one of them, and mightily dangerous, because the women are stronger than the men, and any woman could whip four men at the drop of the hat, because she could take off her wooden shoes and strike out and a man would think he had been hit by a railroad tie.

I do not know what makes Hollanders wear wooden shoes, unless they are sentenced to do it, or that they are unkind and have to be hobbled to keep them from jumping fences, but the people are so good and honest that after you have met them you forget the vaudeville feature of their costumes, and love them, and wish the people of other countries were as honest as they.

For two or three days we were not robbed, and I do not believe there is a dishonest man or woman in Holland, except one. There was one woman that played it on dad in Amsterdam, but I think she only played him for a joke, for she laughed all the time. Dad was much struck at seeing the women selling milk from little carts, hauled by teams of big dogs, and he negotiated with a woman for a dog team and cart, and all one day dad and I put on wooden shoes and Dutch clothes and drove the dog team around town, and so we had the time of our lives, more fun than I ever had outside of a circus, but the shoes skinned our feet, and when the dogs laid down to rest and dad couldn't talk dog language to make them get up and go ahead, he kicked the dog off with his wooden shoe, and the dog got up and grabbed a mouthful of dad's ample pants and shook dad till his teeth were loose, and a woman driving another mess of dogs had to come and choke the dog off so he wouldn't swallow dad, pants and all. Dad gave her a dollar for rescuing him, and what do you think? She pulled an old stocking of money out of her bosom and counted out 96 cents in change and gave it back to dad, and only charged four cents for saving his life, and that couldn't occur in any other country, because in most places they would take the dollar and strike him for more.

Dad wanted to take the dog team and cart to Milwaukee to give it to a friend who sells red hot weiners, and we arranged to have the team loaded on the boat, but just before the boat sailed the dog team was brought on the dock, sleeping and scratching fleas, when the woman dad bought the team of came along and spoke to the dogs in Dutch, and say, those dogs woke up and started on a regular run away down the dock, after the laughing woman, and disappeared up the street, just as the boat whistled to pull in the gang planks. Dad and I stood on deck and saw the team disappear, and dad said "Buncoed again, and it is all your fault. Why didn't you hang on to that dog?"

Well, we lost our dog team, but we got the worth of our money, for we saw a people who do not eat much reliable cabbage and milk, and they are the strongest in the world, and there never was a case of dyspepsia in their country. We saw a people with stone-brushes on their heels and corns on their toes, smiling and laughing all the time. We met a people that work all the time, and never take any recreation except churning and rocking babies, and yet never have to call a doctor, because there are no doctors except veterinary surgeons, who care for dogs and cattle.

The people we met in Holland wear wooden shoes to teach them patience and humility. With wooden shoes no frenzied fanatics of Holland will ever travel the faster road of speculation, slip on a tucket ship banana peel, and fall on the innocent bystander who has stumbled on his eyes and given him a black eye.

It is a "free country," of course, run by men who will fly high as long as they can borrow money for some one else to pay, after they are dead, but within ten years the taxes will eat the people so they will be head over heels in debt to the Yankee and the Spaniard. The German and the Englishman, the Frenchman and the Italian, and some day warships will sail into Havana harbor, over the submerged bones of the "Maine," and there will be a fight for juicy morsels of the Cuban deal horse, by the congregated buzzards of strange navies, or perhaps they will shake dice for the carcass, and by carefully loading the dice saw the whole thing off onto Uncle Sam, and make him pay the debts of the deceased republic, and act as administrator for the benefit of the children of the sawed off republic, whose only asset now is climate that feels good, but contains germs of all diseases, and tobacco that smells good when it is in disintegration under your nose, and does not kill instantly if it is pasted up in Wisconsin wrapper that is the pure goods. If tobacco ever ceases to be a bad with the rich consumer of 50 cent cigars, and beet sugar is found to contain so first aid to Bright's disease, Cuba will amount to about as much as Dry Tortugas, which has nothing but a few cacti and a few

Yours truly, HENNERY.

German Hay-Box Cookery

By CAPT. MURRAY, of Commissary Department, U. S. A., Fort Scott, Kan.

from choice, but from necessity? Now, what's the answer? Very easy. Hay happens to be a good non-conductor of heat or cold.

Take a crock, fill it with water and heat it on a stove. Then pack it in hay, and within an hour it will be almost at boiling point. The heat has been retained and additional generated. Take the same crock, fill it with the ingredients of a stew and let it stay on a stove for about five minutes. Then place it in a woolen box and securely pack it about with hay, and within an hour and a half, or say two hours, your stew will be cooked perfectly.

Meat may be boiled or vegetables cooked in the same manner. I have cooked the eatables above mentioned in this manner in quantities sufficient for a mess of 18 or 20 men and with the most encouraging results.

The plan ought to be a money-saver for working men and women in civil life. The meal can be prepared before going to work in the morning, and upon return it will be ready for serving, and it should cut down coal and wood bills to a minimum.

lunch, and you go to a doctor, who does not do a thing to you, but scare you out of your boots by talking cholera, and giving you the card of his partner, the undertaker, telling you never to think of dying in a tropical country without being embalmed, because you look so much better when you are delivered at your home by the express company, and then he gives you pills and a bill, and an alarm clock that goes off every hour to take a pill by, and furnishes you an officer to go home to your hotel with you to collect his bill, and you pawn your watch and sleeve buttons for a steerage ticket to New York.

Dad has not been much good in Havana, cause he wanted to see the whole business in one day. He got a rowboat and went out in the harbor to where the backbone of the "Maine" acts as a monument to the fellows who yet sleep in the mud of the bottom, and after tying a little American flag on the rigging that sticks above the water, and damning the villains who blew up the good ship, we went back to town and drove out to the cemetery where several hundred of our boys are buried, where we left flowers on the graves and a cross in the balmy air for the guilty wretches who fired the bomb, and then we went back to the city and walked the beautiful streets until dad began to have cramps from trying to eat all the fruit he could hold. Then it was all off, and I was going to call a carriage to take him to the hotel, when dad saw a negro astride a single ox, hitched to a cart, who had come in from the country, and dad said he wanted to ride in that cart, if it was the last act of his life, and as dad was beginning to swell up from the fruit he had eaten I thought he better ride in an open cart, cause in a carriage he might swell up so we couldn't get him out of the door when we got to the hotel.

So I hired the negro, got dad in the cart, and we started, but the ox walked so slow I was afraid we would never get dad there alive, so I told the negro to get behind the cart and run away, and the negro turned pale from fright, and I guess the runaway side on the cobblestone pavement was what saved dad's life, for the swelling in dad's inside began to go down, and when we got to the hotel he got out of the cart alone, and I knew he was better, for he shook himself, gullupped and said, "You think you are smart, don't you? So I will close. Yours, HENNERY."

AMERICAN RULES A TINY KINGDOM

William Cary, of Oakland, Cal., Is Absolute Monarch of the Isle of the Calf of Man.

POPULATION OF THE DOMAIN IS FORTY-ONE

Remarkable Story of Royal Sovereign and His Country—Prefers Native State to His Island and Is Ready and Willing to Sell Latter.

New York.—Would you be a king? Would you, like Robinson Crusoe, be monarch of all you survey? Not an imaginary ruler such as you see in the comic operas of the day, but the real thing, with the lives of your subjects at your command. If so, communicate with William L. D. Cary, of Oakland, Cal., king of the Isle of the Calf of Man, who is tired of his domain and is willing to dispose of it to anybody who will meet his price. The kingdom comprises just 900 acres.

Only Real American Monarch.

Mr. Cary is the only real American king. Although a section of the constitution distinctly says that "no title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and that no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of congress, accept any present, office or title from any king, prince or foreign state, King William, who is an Orders American Flag Hoisted. And then, being a naturalized American citizen, he did just what any good American would have done—he ordered the American flag hoisted over his domain.

He knew they couldn't stop him, for that had been tried before. When his father was king Great Britain had made the attempt to tax the island, thereby putting it under the kingdom's sovereignty. The sturdy ruler took the matter to parliament and produced the original deeds. The lawmakers of England had to acknowledge that the Calf of Man was free and independent. To-day there is no cloud on the title of W. L. D. Cary's kingdom.

Valuable "Treasure Trove" Privileges. The king of Great Britain and Ireland has his "treasure trove" privilege granted him by the constitution. He can claim wreckage, sunken treasure, and pots of gold wherever he goes. So can His Majesty William I. of the Kingdom of the Calf of Man. This is no joke, and he does claim it for much valuable wreckage is cast up on the rocks and reefs of his dominion. Great Britain put up two lighthouses on the rocky coast line, to keep vessels off the dangerous rocks, but King Cary, with the careful California bringing up, promptly bought them, so that nobody could say he wasn't ruler in fact.

Furthermore, just to show his fearless American spirit, King William I. established an American, Mr. Hughes, as lighthouse keeper. Mr. Hughes made his money in Liverpool, but has a summer residence on the Calf of Man. He has fitted up the lighthouse as his home, and it is a marvel of luxury in its way. Mr. Hughes is rich, but the Calf of Manmen say he is a good lighthouse keeper. His butler stands the night watch.

Many good dollars—of course they come in the shape of stipends—are made by the sale of a pamphlet extolling the glories of the place and recounting its romantic history. It is only 500 yards to the Isle of Man, and a ferry runs with as prosaic regularity as do the iron steamboats or the Flat-bush trains. A syndicate has leased the island for five years, and is paying most comfortable dividends.

The summer girl is the chief point of interest. The legend which they buy for sixpence and read when they get back to King Edward's larger domain was written in 1826. Here is a bit of it:

History of the Kingdom.

"Many years before these enlightened days, during that period of time which may truly be called the dark ages of the Calf, when rats and rabbits enjoyed undisputed possession of it, and man had not yet sought a residence on its barren shores, a circumstance occurred which caused a great sensation among the inhabitants of the little village which crowns the opposite shore. The portly matrons of this remote hamlet were roused from their accustomed state of torpor by the unusual appearance of a human figure upon the highest summit of the neighboring island, apparently engaged in some laborious employment.

"Bushell, for such was the name of this solitary being, was the possessor of a small domain on the neighboring coast of Ireland. Close to his little patrimony lay the princely castle of the great O'Neill, whose only sister had been the object of Bushell's childish affections, and was the sole possessor of his more matured devotion. With O'Neill he had always lived on terms of the greatest friendship, now joining in the fatigues of the chase, now uniting in the skillful navigation of the wintry seas. But no sooner did O'Neill discover the object of his friend's affection, than all their intimacy was destroyed.

"At first he contented himself with withdrawing from his society and forbidding him to approach his castle, but when he found his precautions insufficient, that the lovers still met, and that the affection of Bushell was returned, he commenced a series of persecutions, which in those days were sufficient to drive Bushell from his peaceful home, to become an outcast from the haunts of men. Having thus removed the object of her affections, he hoped that his sister would soon cease to remember him. But when many months had elapsed, and Mary's sadness still remained unchanged, he determined to watch her more narrowly, and soon discovered that the intercourse, though rendered more difficult by his tyranny, was not destroyed, but that Bushell was still lurking about the neighborhood, and found means of communication with his sister.

"Incensed at this discovery, he commanded her to prepare to embark with him in a few days for a distant continent, there to bid adieu to the vanities of the world, and conceal her errors under the sanctity of the veil. Intelligence of this cruel determination was quickly conveyed to the outlawed Bushell, who resolved upon the bold design of attacking the vessel of O'Neill and rescuing his beloved Mary from the horrors of a living tomb. The design came forth, was quickly executed, and calling together a few of his followers, a ship was quickly manned to check O'Neill's career. The vessel met amid the gloom and storm of a December night, and hideous was the din and dreadful the clamor which arose from their opposing decks.

"At length the hand of O'Neill gave way, and their leader lay lifeless in the arms of his victorious enemy. But brief time was allowed for sorrow or the shout of victory.

"In this moment of dread and anxiety I was particularly struck by the appearance of one of the unhappy sailors, who, heedless of the unsteadiness of the masts, and the promptitude required to reach the cliff, bore in his arms the body of a female with which he reached the shore just as the vessel sank beneath his feet, dragging with it the mast to which he had so lately clung.

"The horror of awaiting destruction had been too much for the feeble spirit of the maiden, and as she sank into his arms when the vessel struck against that dreadful rock the silver cord was loosed, and she yielded to that death she feared.

"Many years elapsed, and I heard nothing more of the unfortunate stranger, till it accidentally came to my knowledge that a person answering to his description had landed on a small and uninhabited island called the Calf of Man."

Marinette.—Leon Crambeau, seven years old, charged with murdering his six-month-old sister, was placed in jail. A coroner's jury found that the boy set fire to the bed clothes in the baby's cradle and burned the baby to death. The youngster is supposed to be a pyromaniac. He had started fires several times before.

Vandals Desecrate Graves. Peshigo.—The desecrators of Catholic cemeteries, who have smashed hundreds of crosses and monuments at Oconto Falls, Oconto, Spruce and Gillett, visited the cemetery here. The monuments and statues were ruthlessly demolished. Officers have no clue to the perpetrators.

Hanged Himself. La Crosse.—Mrs. Mary Olson, of Whitehall, aged 79 years, a pioneer of western Wisconsin, was found hanging in the woods by a posse who had started out to find the aged woman. She had committed suicide by hanging herself with her apron strings, with which she formed a noose.

The News Condensed. Bangor.—There is panic among the stock owners, caused by a wholesale spread of rabies among the cattle and sheep in that vicinity. A mad dog which terrorized the farmers bit several cows in various herds. Dozens of cows are now suffering.

Beloit.—The Third Wisconsin Veterans' association at its reunion here raised money for a monument to be placed at Cedar Mountain, Va., where the regiment suffered heavy losses August 9, 1862.

Artigo.—John Fleishman, aged 21, was killed by being drawn into a grain separator near here.

Racine.—A. J. Malgren, aged 55 years, a tailor, dropped dead on a table while at work.

La Crosse.—The thirty-second annual convention of the Wisconsin Women's Christian Temperance union will be held here October 3 to 6.

Madison.—Ernest Kell, who was made the defendant in a damage suit for $1,000, after being fined $25 and costs for assaulting Sam Hanson, chauffeur for Dr. C. F. Sloop, with a pitchfork, has settled the case out of court by paying the injured chauffeur $100.

Beloit.—Beloit college began its fifty-ninth year of work with a freshman class of 126 members, the largest in the history of the school.

La Crosse.—Imbued with the idea that he ought to be married and proposing to every girl that he met on the streets, James J. Sullivan was arrested here.

Eau Claire.—Saloon licenses will hereafter cost $500 here, instead of $200. This was decided at an election by a majority of 269.

Milwaukee.—A 25-foot fall from a scaffold resulted in the almost instant death of Joseph Haxman, a carpenter. Green Bay.—While all the members of his family were at church, Frank Belo, of Bay Settlement, aged 50, shot himself through the heart with a shotgun.

Milwaukee.—Because one leg was paralyzed and because of protracted ill health, Albert Seise, 19 years old, committed suicide by taking carbofic acid.

La Crosse.—The National Purity conference will be held in this city October 17 to 19. Delegates will be present from all over the United States and Canada.

Sheboygan.—A new bank has been organized here to be known as the Farmers' and Merchants' bank, with a capital of $50,000.

Madison.—West Wisconsin Methodist conference adopted resolutions asking the United States senate to declare the seat of Reed Smoot, Mormonist, vacant, and for a constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy. Also, commending President Roosevelt for bringing the Russian-Japanese war to a close.

Trevino.—George Desjardins, aged 22 years, fell from a work train three miles west of here and was instantly killed.

Dodgeville.—Mrs. Plat Whitman, wife of the manager of the state bank at Ridgeway, Iowa county, died at the family home here from the effects of typhoid fever received by falling with a kerosene lamp.

Fond du Lac.—Former Mayor Frank B. Hoskins died suddenly here. He was president of the Eastern Wisconsin railway and was one of the most prominent Knights of Pythias in the United States.

Marinette.—In a cave-in, William Hinderlander, a laborer, was buried, and was dead when dug out four minutes later by his fellow workmen.

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS.

State Banks Prospering. Madison.—According to a report issued by State Banking Commissioner M. C. Bergh, the 34 state banks of Wisconsin are doing a fine business. The report is based upon returns made to the commissioner after the close of business on August 25. The returns are compared with those made in response to the preceding call of May 29. During the period within the two dates the state bank of Platteville dissolved business, the state bank of Rib Lake was nationalized, and new banks were organized at Neosho, Random Lake and Stockbridge. The increase in liabilities and resources during the period in question was $1,537,591.91.

Would Enforce Child Labor Law. Milwaukee.—An important step in the enforcement of the child labor law was taken here through the organization of a Wisconsin child labor committee, whose object is to enforce the child labor laws and assist in familiarizing the people with them. A general committee was appointed, with representatives from various points in the state, and an executive committee was selected to have charge of the business matters of the league and to serve six months.

Will Build to Milwaukee. Kenosha.—Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state at Springfield, Ill., for the incorporation of the Chicago, Evanston & North Shore Railway company. The company will build a line from Chicago to Milwaukee on the east side of the Northwestern tracks. Nearly all of the right of way for the road was secured by the late Alexander Clarke.

Child Arrested. Marinette.—Leon Crambeau, seven years old, charged with murdering his six-month-old sister, was placed in jail. A coroner's jury found that the boy set fire to the bed clothes in the baby's cradle and burned the baby to death. The youngster is supposed to be a pyromaniac. ## DEATH SEEMED NEAR.

How a Chicago Woman Found Help When Hope Was Fast Fading Away. Mrs. E. T. Gould, 914 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill., says: "Don's Kidney Pills are all that saved me from death of Bright's Disease, that I know. I had eye trouble, backache, catches when lying alone or when bending over, was languid and often dizzy and had sick headache and bearing-down pains. The kidney secretions were too copious and very frequent, and very bad in appearance. It was in 1903 that Don's Kidney Pills helped me so quickly and cured me of those troubles and I've been well ever since."

Six Doctors Failed. South Bend, Ind., Sept. 25th (Special).—After suffering from kidney disease for three years; after taking treatment from six different doctors without getting relief, Mr. J. O. Landman of this place, found not only relief, but a speedy and complete cure in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Speaking of his cure, Mr. Landman says: "Yes, I suffered from kidney trouble for three years, and tried six doctors to no good. Then I took just two boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they not only cured my kidneys, but gave me better health in general. Of course I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to others, and I know a number now who are using them with good results."

Mr. Landman's case is not an exception. Thousands give similar experiences. For there never yet was a case of kidney trouble from backache to Bright's disease that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills could not cure. They are the only pills that ever cured Bright's disease.

Looking for a Name.

The scene is a drug store, in a low part of Broadway. When the action opens a pretty woman is anxiously turning over the leaves of the city directory, relates the New York Tribune.

Enter an irascible old man, who wants to find a name for a new brand of pills. He stops and waits impatiently, filling in the time by coughing suggestively.

A business man in a hurry follows. He wants to know where John Brown lives. It is in the next street, but he has forgotten the number. He falls in line.

Then a man who seeks some city official, but knows nothing of his office, except that it closes within a few minutes. He waits in the ranks of the waiters.

Half a dozen others who wish to consult the directory gather around. Still the woman placidly turns leaf after leaf over, without evident intention to decide whether the name she seeks is Brown, Jones or Walker.

When there are fully half a score waiting, impatient people in line, enter a newspaper reporter. His mission will position him, and he will be politely asked to assist the woman, suggesting that his experiences may tend to save time and lessen her labor. When she asks her what she seeks, with a sweet smile of thankful appreciation, she says:

"Oh! Thank you. You are very kind. I am trying to find a really, really, pretty name for my new pill baby."

SALT RHEUM ON HANDS. Suffered Agony and Had to Wear Bandages All the Time—Another Cure by Caticura.

Another cure by Caticura is told of by Mrs. M. J. Smith of Chicago, Ill. My husband suffered agony with salt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried everything we could get, but nothing helped him until he used Caticura. One set of Caticura Soap, Caticura and Caticura Cure cured him entirely, and his hands have been as smooth and supple ever since. I do hope this letter will be the means of helping some other sufferer.

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Care of Miss Irene Crosby is One of Thousands of Cures Made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street, East Savannah, Ga., writes: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful menstruation when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the throat, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and send for a free copy of the book, "The Women's Friend," to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. Thousands have been cured by sending.

American citizen, as well as a sovereign, may snap his fingers thereat. The parliament of Great Britain has established the status of Mr. Cary, the Calf of Man, as "office of profit or trust" under our government, and he hasn't "accepted" any from a foreign power.

King's Power Absolute.

King William's title to his demesne is from the same source of warranty as Edward VII., king of Great Britain and the Isles, emperor of India, defender of the faith. His power is even more absolute, for King Edward has no say in making the laws of Great Britain, while King Cary, of Oakland, Cal., makes all the laws of the Calf of Man. His say is absolute over his 41 subjects. But he prefers to live in Oakland, Cal.

The kingdom of William, Rex, really lies in British waters, but is not subject to British authority. What's more, the king is tired of his dominion, and you can buy his kingdom for not so much. It is on the market for sale to the highest bidder. It comprises just 900 acres.

This vast pocket kingdom lies to the southwest of the Isle of Man, which is England's, all right, and it is legally denominated as the Calf of Man. It breeds the same tailless cats as does head of the king of England during a desperate battle. The king escaped unscathed, but the Cary who saved him was desperately wounded. In recognition of his fealty and bravery the king of England gave this Cary the Isle of Man to be his to rule over forever. There W. L. D. Cary was born.

But he got tired of the limits of 500 acres when he was only a boy, and he came west. In California he made a fortune, and in Oakland he chose to make his permanent home, despite the call of the scepter from the Calf of Man. His older brother died, and the cry "The king is dead, long live the king!" summoned him from Madison street, Oakland, Cal., to his ancestral inheritance. He looked it over. Then he turned up his nose. What was the use of living there in royal splendor over 41 subjects, when a hotel in San Francisco could put him up over night for three dollars in far better style than planktoners are cared for on the Calf of Man?

"Sell it!" ordered the king, laying down his scepter, and noting by his watch that he could catch a boat which would allow him to make the first steamer for the United States and Oakland, Cal.

The "Inter State Fair" exhibition about the last fair of the season, is holding forth at La Crosse this week.

Although the name is "Inter State" and it draws some $3,500 annually from the state treasury, it is not one-fourth as large in any way, exhibits or attendance, as the Elkhorn fair was last week.

By the way, the legislature of 1907 will be duly informed of just how much there is in a name and a demand will be made that all local fairs will be paid the same percentage.

That will undoubtedly follow and the "Inter State" at La Crosse and the "Northern Wisconsin" at Chippewa Falls will be cut off from extra appropriations and reduced to their proper place, about third class, county fairs.

President Roosevelt fears yellow fever no more than he would a bear or mountain lion, with his trusty rifle at his shoulder. The man seems to know no fear, or if he does, he does not allow it to prevent keeping his word or his appointments.

As an illustration his trip through the south will serve to sustain. Last spring he announced his itinerary which included New Orleans. Even after the yellow fever made its appearance in that city, the president was ready to keep his appointment. But an obstacle arose. The executives of other states where he proposed to visit, have objected to his coming into their states from a quarantined city. Or rather, on consultation with the president feared the people might object. So President Roosevelt is waiting for decisions from State Boards of Health before he concludes to make his southern trip.

For himself, he seems to have no fear. But for his people he will make almost any sacrifice and yield to their wishes. He had allotted on this visit. But if the people fear contagion he will abandon it.

According to the last report of the commissioner on pensions just published, the number of pensioners has increased, and is now given as 999,411. In July 1902, the number was more than a million, but it rapidly fell off so that at one time since then the number was about 950,000.

All loyal persons, those who recognize the service our soldiers gave, rejoice that the pensioners are receiving just compensation from their government.

The great majority of these pensioners are deserving. Some of them, however, those who indulge in their regular quarterly spree, spending their entire pension for three months, in riotous living, would be better off without it. Because the drunken spree results finally in misery, more than counteracting the few days of imagined happiness.

But our government cannot go so far as to specify how the pension money must be invested. And the great army of deserving old soldiers should not be cut off from their dues in order to punish the underserving. So the pension should stand, as it always will, because it is a just recognition of the loyalty of all men who left their homes to uphold their country.

THE PASS LAW.

When the first anti-pass legislation was enacted in Wisconsin the representatives of the railroads insisted that if executive officers, legislators and judges were to be forbidden indulgence in pass bribery, notaries public and school districts officials must take the same treatment, although this same reason did not exist in their cases. The demand was complied with, however, and it was supposed that it would kill the law in its practical effect. As the result was otherwise, now comes one of the railroads asking for a test of the constitutionality of a law as respects notaries, and proposing to take the case promptly to the supreme court for adjudication. Experience shows that the public gets along very well with notaries paying the railway fares, and if every passenger were made to do the same there would be no harm—Free Press.

In 1899, when the anti-pass bill was introduced in the legislature, only the legislative and judicial offices were contemplated in the prohibition. But many of the legislators who, by public sentiment, were forced to support the bill, hitched all offices to the measure, and not content with shutting out others, attached members of political committees as well, to gratify their indignation.

That was all right. No true friend to the people complained. Without this anti-pass law, we would still be without our rate commission law and also without hope of our two cent fare law, which we expect to have by the legislature of 1907. So mote it be.

NORTHERN WISCONSIN PRESS.

THE LADY SMITH NEWS.

The Owen & Northern railway has had a crew of men and team at work grading from Corbett's lake to the railway bridge this week. The ground there is in good condition and the crew is making good headway. All that is wanted in order that the road shall be pushed to an early completion is some dry weather. The contractors are reported as doing all they can to get the line through from Owen to Ladysmith this fall and with reasonably good weather will succeed.

The new addition to the Gerard hotel is rapidly approaching completion. The frame is completed and the roof is on. It will now be a matter of but a few days when the complete hotel will be ready for occupancy. This more than doubles the capacity of the hotel.

THE TOMAHAWK.

The High school boys are working diligently to work up a good foot ball team this year and have already begun practice. They have some excellent material among them and ought to have a winning team this fall. Elmer Foster is captain of the team.

William Elbel, formerly of Tomahawk, now of Ladysmith, was in the city a few hours Tuesday evening and called on old acquaintances. Mr. Elbel was on his way home from a business visit at Ladysmith.

John G. Gray arrived in the city from Meridian, last Monday night to join his wife and family who are guests of relatives and friends in this city. Mr. Gray is a Tomahawk boy and has a kindly feeling toward his former home town, and the residents of this city. He noted with pleasure the many improvements in Tomahawk and the present prosperous condition of the city. Mr. Gray is engaged in the lumber business in Mississippi.

FOREST ADVANCE.

A. C. Reinhardt, one of our village boys, who was engaged superintending the steam shovel on the new Chippewa Railway now under construction for the past two months, has laid off for a rest and returned home on Saturday. He says the new road bed for the new railway is being made for a standard gauge and that the crew is at work on the west side of Tanager Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson of Oshkosh, arrived here with their hunting car which is drawn by four horses. They will hunt in the northern part of Forest county for the next six weeks, a rule they have followed for the past ten years.

MINOQUA TIMES.

W. H. Stebbins of Springfield and Judge Lincoln of Ottawa, Ill., arrived in town Wednesday from a fishing trip to Carroll lake. Their catch consisted of five muskellunge two of which went better than twenty pounds.

Jas. A. Wright arrived Wednesday from Merrill for a short outing at their cottage on Trout lake.

Jas. Oberholzer of Eagle River and M. E. Berg of Rhinelander were in this vicinity several days last week and this. They were looking for violators of the fish and game laws.

TAYLOR COUNTY STAR NEWS.

273 hunting licenses have already been issued in Taylor county to date.

The Chippewa Falls association of business men vied to bear good fruit. Recently a furniture factory was secured through its efforts. Fifteen thousand dollars worth of stock was taken by local parties. A brick building 60x150 feet will be erected. Surely organization pays.

The visit of Bishop Schinner, of Superior, to Medford last Saturday and Sunday was one of the most important recent events in the Catholic church here. A large number from the congregation were at the depot to welcome the Bishop on his arrival Saturday afternoon. The services on Sunday were attended by hundreds, many of them from other churches. Bishop Schinner confirmed a class of two hundred young people in the afternoon, and after the confirmation preached a sermon. Several visiting priests were present as well. Father Dickup accompanied the Bishop during the week on visits to neighboring places.

EAGLE RIVER REVIEW.

Dr. Henry O'Connor and wife were over from Rhinelander the fore part of the week visiting relatives.

The wind Monday night unroofed part of the Catholic church at Three Lakes. Rev. Toplak was down to that place Wednesday to see about having the church roof repaired.

Mrs. Fred Sanborn of Ashland and sister, Miss Ida Slattery of this place, departed Tuesday night for Europe. They expect to be absent about six or eight weeks.

WATSON DAILY RECORD.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Walker, who have been here to attend the Methodist conference and visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Murray, left today for their home at Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds, who have been visiting at the home of their son W. L. Edmonds, left this morning for their home at Oconto Falls.

They say there are men in Philadelphia who have never attended a primary and who are surprised at the revelations of official crookedness. Philadelphia is not the only city where citizens have neglected their duty and who are in line for a surprise if they keep up their neglect.

ASHLAND DAILY PRESS.

Arrangements are being made to greet the president on his return to Washington, and he will be escorted through the streets of Washington with proper escort, and he will be accorded a reception, fitting for the occasion. All this may seem a small matter, but it is something unique in Washington, the city of officialdom, where it takes an extraordinary effort for the populace to wake up to the proper appreciation of things. It means that even in the city of Washington, President Roosevelt's extraordinary personal popularity has awakened the people to the fact, that nothing is too good for Roosevelt. It will be the greatest job of President Roosevelt's life to dodge a re-nomination and re-election.

An unknown man tried to gain admission to the C. W. Chatterton residence early Sunday morning by climbing through a second story window. Mr. Chatterton who chanced to be awake at the time, hastened to the window in time to see the man drop to the ground and take to his heels. Owing to the darkness he was unable to secure a description of the party.

Be Sure to Use Only Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

Food made with alum baking powder carries alum to the stomach unchanged.
Scientists have positively demonstrated this and that such food is partly indigestible and unhealthful.

DENSED FORM.

LATE FOREIGN DISPATCHES

Interesting Items of News Gathered from All Parts of the Globe and Outlined in the Briefest Manner Possible.

THE INSURANCE PROBE.

John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, testifying in the legislative inquiry, declared that Alton B. Parker, as chairman of the democratic state committee, never refused a dollar of corporation money for campaigns. Mr. McCall admitted that Andrew Hamilton, the company's legislative and tax agent, had a fund of $25,000 for which he gives no account except to the president.

Alton B. Parker issued a statement in which he declares that neither directly nor indirectly did he solicit money from any corporation in the campaign of 1904. President Roosevelt, after a conference, decided to assail in his next message, the policy of accepting campaign contributions from life insurance companies and similar concerns. He also urges that the republican national committee return the money illegally given it.

Vice President Perkins admitted to the legislative committee that the New York Life paid Morgan six per cent, on $500,000 purchase money in an over-sight "sale" of bonds previous to the report to the commission. He also acknowledged "selling" $12,750,000 New Orleans bonds for $357,000 a year later. A cable dispatch from Paris, in France, to the effect that the $100,000 received by him from the New York Life Insurance company, in March, 1904, was not used for influencing state legislation.

President Morton ordered suit to recover more than $1,000,000 which he says was paid without authority under the old Equitable regime on loans for which the society should not be held responsible. The financial secretary of the Equitable told the legislative committee that Hyde and other trustees had taken immense sums from the treasury for speculation without an accounting.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

The New Orleans yellow fever record to date is: Deaths, 311; total cases, 2,603.

The Illinois health board ordered St. Louis physicians to cease examining passengers at Sparta, Ill., and Missourians threaten to establish quarantine on the bridge connecting the two states.

New Orleans is preparing for President Roosevelt's visit, not anticipating trouble with quarantine regulations.

Believing, after a conference with Dr. White, that the fever situation is under control, President Wilson recommends to the New Orleans school board that the public schools be opened on October 2.

SEPARATION IS AGREED UPON

NORWAY AND SWEDEN REACH AN UNDERSTANDING.

BOTH MAKE CONCESSIONS

Protocol Signed and Conference Ended
—War Is Averted—Short History of the Trouble.

Karlstad, Spain, Sept. 25.—An agreement was reached Saturday morning on the terms of the dissolution of the union of Norway and Sweden. The understanding was arrived at during the final session of the delegates, which lasted over three hours, and the meeting adjourned until 1:30 p. m. During the adjournment the secretaries were engaged in preparing a protocol for the signature of the representatives of the two countries.

Agreement Is Signed.
The full agreement was reached and signed at 6:10 p. m., when the conference terminated. The protocols will be published next week at Christiania and Stockholm simultaneously.

The details of the agreement are not generally known, but it is reported that Norway concedes the Swedish Laplanders the right to pasture reindeer in Norway and in return Sweden will not insist upon the destruction of the modern portions of the old fortresses. New forts on the border are to be dismantled. The government permits the inference to be drawn that the Norwegians abandoned their position on almost every disputed point, owing to the pressure of the powers. The satisfactory adjustment of the difficulty gives general relief, as a dangerous feeling had been growing that Norway desired war.

Beginning of Trouble.
In May last the Norwegian parliament by an almost unanimous vote passed a bill for a consular service independent of that of Sweden. This bill was vetoed by King Oscar and in consequence the Norwegian ministry resigned.

The king refused to accept the resignation and then on June 7 the parliament in Christiania adopted a resolution declaring that the union of Norway with Sweden under one king was dissolved in consequence of the king's having ceased to act as a Norwegian king.

Called to King Oscar.
An address to King Oscar reciting the step taken and the reasons therefor was also adopted, but the king refused to receive it, declaring that the action taken was revolutionary.

The next move was on the part of King Oscar, who summoned a special meeting of the Swedish riksdag to consider the situation. This body authorized the government to negotiate a loan of $2,000,000 for works of defense and declared the harbor of Stockholm, Karlskrona, Gothenburg and Larsood to be war ports from which all foreign naval vessels were to be excluded.

Looked Like War for a Time.
For a time the outlook was warlike, but the excitement gradually calmed down and the riksdag finally adopted resolutions agreeing to the dissolution of the union on certain conditions. One of these was that the people of Norway should take a referendum vote on the question of separation.

When the votes were counted it was found that 256,200 were for separation and 184 against it. Committees were then appointed to consider the details of the dissolution of the bonds between the two countries. They met at Karlstad, in Sweden, some weeks ago, but they had great difficulty in arriving at the agreement.

Odd Fellows Adjourn.
Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—The concluding session of the eighty-first annual communication of the sovereign grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was held Saturday. Two important questions were discussed. One was that dealing with the proposed affiliation of the order with the Manchester Unity in England. The other was the proposed cooperation with the corporation which controls 11,000 acres of land in Las Vegas, N. M., looking to the enlargement of the sanitarium for consumptives maintained by the order. The proposition involves the appropriation of $1,000,000.

Terrified Terrier.
A singular instance of a dog being frightened by terror is recorded from Nottingham, England. A terrier wandered on to the railway line when an express was approaching. It was so fascinated at the sight of the monster that it stood stock still, and the train thundered over it at 50 miles an hour. The dog was found unharmed, but shivering with fright.

Among the 9,915 prisoners taken to the Moabit prison in Berlin last year, there were 1,181 females.

Titles Hockstered.
Advertisement in the London Times: "Titles of Nobility—Foreign Decorations and Orders procured for Gentlemen of means without publicity; replies by letter only requested from serious persons. Apply, etc."

Side Features of Golf.
An Iowa preacher claims that he can play golf without using profane language. There are others who can do that, but the important thing is to be able to play the game without thinking of profane thoughts.

BOMB KILLS FIVE IN PEKING

IT IS EXPLODED INSIDE OF PRIVATE CAR.

Twenty Persons Wounded—Among Them Is Wu Ting Fang, Ex-Minister to United States.

Peking, Sept. 25.—At the Peking railway station Sunday, as a train carrying one of the four missions departed abroad to study foreign political methods was leaving, a bomb was exploded inside a private car, killing four minor officials and wounding over 20 other persons. The perpetrator of the outrage, who was in the car, was blown to pieces. The wounded included Prince Tsai Teh, who heads the most important of the missions, and Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States, both of whom received slight injuries. The affair has created a profound sensation and causes apprehension regarding the safety of members of the court and leading officials of the government. The government offices and the railways are now strongly guarded.

The edict appointing the missions mentioned in the foregoing dispatch was issued July 16. A dispatch from Peking August 29 said that the missions were appointed to study foreign systems of government because the dowager empress intended to issue a decree at the new year for the establishment of a parliament 12 years hence.

OPEN STATE CAMPAIGNS.
Ohio Democrats Meet at Newark
While Republicans Gather at Bellevue.

Newark, O., Sept. 25.—The democratic state campaign was opened here Saturday at an open-air mass meeting, in which three of the party candidates participated as speakers, assisted by a former candidate for governor. The president of the party was Judge S. M. Hunter, of this city, who was a prominent candidate for the gubernatorial nomination against Patterson. It had been planned to have present also James E. Campbell, the late democratic governor of Ohio, but he was unable to be present, and sent, instead, a letter expressing his regret.

Bellevue, O., Sept. 25.—Beautiful weather and immense crowds were the first features of the opening of the republican state campaign here Saturday. The city was generally decorated for the occasion and republican clubs from all parts of the state arrived early in the day to participate in the parade which was held during the morning.

Judge Bow was chairman of the meeting. Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, Gov. Myron T. Herrick and Senator J. B. Foraker were among the speakers.

Auto Crash Proves Fatal.
Chicago, Sept. 25.—Walter Calkins, 25 years old, said to be connected with a prominent Chicago family, was thrown beneath his automobile and fatally injured in a collision with a furniture wagon between Wilmette and Kenilworth early Saturday. Calkins was hurled to a hospital in another automobile, but died as he was carried in. At the hospital it was said he had suffered no wounds to cause death, and the theory was advanced that the terrific shock reacted fatally on a weak heart.

Pope's Car Makes Best Time.
Milan, L. I., Sept. 25.—In the elimination automobile races Saturday, by which five American cars were to be selected to enter the W. K. Vanderbilt cup race on October 14, A. L. Pope's 60-horsepower car, driven by Albert C. Dingley, made the best time over the 112 miles course, going the distance in two hours and 50 seconds.

Wealthy Soap Maker Dead.
Detroit, Minn., Sept. 25.—Emil Work, of Cincinnati, died here Saturday at his summer home, "Stoneycroft." He came here from Carlsbad, Germany, a few weeks ago. He was a wealthy soap manufacturer, but had not been active in business for several years.

Fighting in East Africa.
Berlin, Sept. 25.—The government has received information from German East Africa that attacks by the rebels on Machebe have been successfully repulsed, that the Mirgoroth rebels lost 250 killed and the Graweth column had arrived at Kilua, after inflicting severe losses on the rebels in six fights.

HOW A FRIEND- SHIP GREW

The Story

Whether Hand Sapolio got a more enthusiastic welcome in homes where Sapolio was an old and tried friend, or where it was a stranger, is a question. Where women had come to rely on Sapolio for rapid, thorough cleaning in every part of the house except the laundry, they commenced without loss of time, to avail of this new prize. Grubby little hands, and stained, worn-out ones, whitened, softened, and smoothed out as if by magic, callous spots disappeared, and complexion cleared. Children ceased their strenuous objections to the scrubbing up process, because it became a pleasure. It freshened up the hands after dish-washing, removing the most disagreeable feature of that necessary task. It was found to keep delicate baby skins from chafing better than salve or powder, and the crowning note in the song of delight came when an adult member of the family used it in a full bath, and realized that a Turkish Bath at a cost of one dollar was outdone by a small fraction of the little, ten-cent, velvety cake.

But, strange though it may seem, there were people who had not learned to prize Sapolio. To these the advertising of Hand Sapolio came as a surprise. Sapolio, a scouring soap, adapted for the hands, the face, the general toilet? Impossible, it would be horrid. Who ever heard of such a use? Finally a bold shopper carried home a cake. Does it look like kitchen Sapolio? No one is sure, and a cake of that is bought, and comparison made. Behold a family using both the Sapolios for every conceivable purpose, and comparing notes! After easily and quickly cleansing a greasy pan with Sapolio, Jane thought the other would be gritty, and was astonished at the smooth, dainty lather. Another was certain it would harden the hands and could scarcely realize how soft and "comfy" they felt after the washing.

Then began the excitement of adventure; what would the new soap NOT do? A girl tried a shampoo. Her hair, pretty, soft and silky "went up" perfectly, with none of the unmanageableness that generally exists for a full week after the usual process. A man used the delightful lather for shaving, and felt no need for cold cream afterwards. A plump face was treated to a daily bath—ing with the fullness, and promptly yielded to it, feet

WHY TAKE DAINTY CARE of your mouth and neglect your pores, the myriad mouths of your skin? HAND SAPOLIO does not gloss them over, or chemically dissolve their health-giving oils, yet clears them thoroughly by a method of its own.

had a tendency to hardening regulated their natural condition, till another family had joined the chorus of friendly acclaim. And so it is everywhere, those who know the "elder brother" welcome the newcomer, for the sake of the first known.

THE FIRST STEP away from self-respect is lack of care in personal cleanliness. The first move in building up a proper pride in man, woman or child is a visit to the bathroom. You can't be healthy, or pretty, or even clean, unless you are clean. Use HAND SAPOLIO. It cleans everything.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some sausage meat and it gave cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the box I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by

KAISER IS JOILY AT SEA.

Casts Aside Etiquette and Goes In for Good Time on Royal Yacht.

Hamburg.—The Kaiser at sea on board his own yacht is a very different man from the emperor who lives in state in Berlin or at Potsdam. At sea the Kaiser is a bluff, jovial, jocular, and from the moment he embarks until the time of his return ashore at the end of the voyage the Kaiser never wears anything but nautical costume. If he is paying ceremonial visits he wears the uniform of a German admiral; but he prefers to wear the uniform of the Imperial yacht club, consisting of a blue peaked cap and a simple blue serge suit.

His majesty rises every morning at five o'clock when at sea, and frequently amuses himself by going around to the cabin of his guests and rapping vigorously at their doors. Sometimes he opens the cabin door, puts his head inside and admonishes the guests to get up and dress.

The royal yacht carries a drill master, Col. von Dresky, who was formerly director of the central gymnasium for military cadets in Berlin. Col. von Dresky was also the Kaiser's instructor in gymnastics. Immediately after breakfast, which consists of tea, toast, eggs, fish and meat, the Kaiser's guests are mustered in rows. Like young recruits, and Col. von Dresky drills them in military style. Some of the Imperial guests are portly courtiers, who cut a queer figure at drill. The Kaiser does not take part in the drill himself, but watches the fun with great pleasure.

Participation in gymnastic exercises is one of the emperor's chief amusements on board. He is an expert in spite of the fact that he is deprived of the use of his left arm. One of the features of the gymnasium on board the Hohenzollern is an electric horse, which jumps, rears, kicks and plunges wildly about, so that the rider must have a good seat if he wishes to avoid a nasty fall. The Kaiser delights in riding the electric horse, and after he has amused himself by watching the guests at drill they in turn enjoy the fun of watching his majesty on the back of the electric plunger.

The emperor spends two or three hours daily in promenading the deck at a quick pace, and those of his guests who are invited to walk with him on these occasions frequently find it difficult to keep their breath. He never abandons these promenades in rough weather, having excellent sea legs, which enable him to keep his balance in spite of the rolling and pitching.

SCIENCE TO KILL WHALES.

Station Costing $50,000 Is Established for the Purpose on Vancouver Island.

Sechart, B. C.—Modern whaling is exemplified in a scheme in operation at Sechart, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where a whaling station costing $50,000 has just been established.

One hundred men will be employed there in transforming the carcasses of whales into various profitable products, every part of the leviathans being utilized.

The whales will be caught by the modern steam whaler Orion, recently arrived from Europe, which will cruise off Sechart, where whales will be harpooned by modern devices from the deck of the Orion and patent reels and special Winchesters will help take care of the monster after he is conquered. A similar station may be established next season near Nanaimo.

SOUTHERN GIRL AT HEAD.

Young Woman Who Leads Successful Firm in the Lumber Business.

Atlanta, Ga.—Many people of the north, having never visited the southern states, have a vague idea of the young women of that region, mostly based on literature of antebellum days. Yet girls south of the Mason and Dixon line are peers of New York, Minnesota, Oregon, or, in fact, any young woman. One of the most successful young business women in the country is Miss W. S. Pratt, of Atlanta, Ga., who is said to be the only woman south of Chicago in the lumber trade. When the firm for which she was stenographer went out of business, without losing a day hunting a position, she opened an office and began operations. Having acquired a knowledge of lumber and its mutations in the market, Miss Pratt was not long in proving her ability, and to-day she is at the head of a firm handling 100 cars every month.

Insinuation. Husband (during the spat)—I wish you were some place where I would never see you again.

Wife (calmly)—In other words, you wish I were in heaven, I suppose.—Chicago Daily News.

You have heard that some foods furnish fat, other foods make muscle, and still others are tissue building and heat forming.

You know that most foods have one or more of these elements, but do you know that no food contains them all in such properly balanced proportions as a good soda cracker?

The United States Government report shows that soda crackers contain less water, are richer in the muscle and fat elements, and have a much higher per cent of the tissue building and heat forming properties than any article of food made from flour.

That is why Uneda Biscuit should form an important part of every meal. They represent the superlative of the soda cracker, all their goodness and nourishment being brought from the oven to you in a package that is proof against air, moisture and dust—the price being too small to mention.
